Executive Summary

NECDO has successfully accomplished 19 years enhancement to empowerment Afghan women, youth, and person with disability and children that leaving no one behind. In NECDO's history the year 2018 was a challenging year due to political unrest and aggravated conflicts and re-emergence of Taliban, corrupt parliamentary election increased domestic violence with more than 5000¹ cases registration, corruption which caused huge number of internal displacement (IDPS), illegal migration and lots of casualties. It was challenging year especially for some of our staff working on the ground as human rights defenders and women's right activists. Insecurity was threatening most of our network on the ground in almost 22 provinces. Three of Imams were shutdown². We also encounter funding raising difficulties due to increased corruption in all national and international institutions. The above mentioned challenges did not stop us from moving forward and lightening more candles to spread the message of light and hope. The struggle continues to promote women human rights in the country with support of our partners, donors and committed staff, whom I cordially thank for their generous support for a common aim "A Prosperous Afghanistan based on Gender Equality Norms".

We especially appreciate Development & Peace (CARITAS-Canada) for their support of Mobilizing Afghan Man to Protect Women Right. This initiative was more publically got attention not only on local level but also on international level and Ms. Afghani received the Certificate of Good will Ambassador from Aurora³, WILPF member news high lighted this project under men engage program at WILPF webpage⁴. Ms. Afghani is going to participant for a UN program on "Imam4she"⁵ where to present the project findings with other feminists. NU Indonesia and the Embassy of Indonesia in Kabul for their support of Imam Initiative program on women rights, UNWOMEN for Supporting Women from 10 provinces participate in NUA Annual Conference, Jerrahi Order of America Sadaqa & Zakat for their generous support of NECDO relief program, ADB (Asian Development Bank) for conducting a study on Women Access to Financial Service and Mobility in Kabul, this report will highlight the barriers in front of women to access to financial institution and ways how to coup with them, which in result will enable the stakeholders make effective policies on women economic empowerment in the country, It worth mention the WORLD GIFT Japan for their donation of gifts for Afghan children and Mr. Haroon Alekozai (Residing in Sweden) for provision of some IT equipment through NECDO to 8 big schools in Kabul. NECDO “Men Engage Program” to promote and protect women’s Right.

Project Number 1: Mobilizing Afghan Man, Youth and Women to Protect Woman’s Human Rights

For the past three years of partnership NECDO with financial support of Development and Peace Caritas-Canada implemented the project “Mobilizing Afghan Man, Youth and Women to Protect Woman Human Rights” project. During the year 2018 the project covered four provinces of Kabul (2 Districts Bagrami and Khak-i-Jabar), Ningarhar, Laghman and Parwan with a total number of 1830 direct beneficiaries and 183000 of indirect beneficiaries. The project Goal and objectives were to mobilize Afghan men, youths & women to protect and promote women human rights, through provision of awareness trainings, spreading posters and developing a manual on the rights of women. The goal of the project was to train 400 influential people (200 women, 100 youths, and 100 influential leaders- shura members and imams) to become as advocates for woman rights in their own communities.

NECDO conducted 16 workshops in 4 targeted provinces (4 workshops x 4 provinces=16) two day awareness raising workshops conducted in 4 provinces of Kabul, Ningarhar, Laghman and Parwan as covered 405 influential people of the community, such as Imams, Community leaders, Youths and Women Activists who gave a strong Written and verbal commitment to NECDO during the workshops and CWG conference to work and advocate for the protection of women rights in their respective communities. In each of the trainings NECDO training team had to take written and verbal commitment from each of the trainee and participant to work with 10 more people within their communities through sharing the knowledge and information he/she got in the training and encourage them to be part of these social change of attitude towards women in their communities, thus 4050 people from different walks of life are now volunteer advocates for protecting women rights, democracy and peace. The NECDO trainers were also in touch with trainees' team leader on provincial level, who was providing the report on the trainees' information sharing sessions. We have got 10 reports from provincial team leaders, which indicate that trainees within their communities in each conducted 10 awareness-raising sessions. Overall the information has reached out directly to 4050 individual, which has included 50% gender balance among the target beneficiaries. Workshops successfully completed in 4 provinces based on the project activity plan developed, we now have 4 CWGs (Community working Groups) from among the men, women and youths who got awareness in the trainings held and are interlinked in CWG to fulfill their commitments, they have signed a written commitment at the end of the training. NECDO trainer by the end of training selected the most active and alert participants to become member of the CWG in each province.

During the conference these active members of the CWGs gathered in Kabul and once again unanimously expressed their voluntarily commitment to work in their respective communities for the cause of women rights and women's social and political empowerment. The theme of the conference was Together for Protecting Women Rights Which was held in December 2018 in Kabul and the members of the CWGs from the provinces were also invited

Lesson learned: Based on the evaluation and follow up from the beneficiaries in the project many cases were narrated on change of behavior in the communities towards women rights. As the following few factual stories were narrated by the members of CWGs:

- Haji Zadran Khan one of the direct male beneficiaries of AF3226 project workshop from Ningarhar province said: "Holy religion of Islam refers to men and women as human beings and confer those equal rights and basis superiority on virtue. Therefore, violence against women is unpleasant in Islam and that religious scholars play an effective role in the community in order to reduce violence against women, together we can do more on the elimination of violence against women and protecting their rights".
- Zahra one of direct female beneficiaries of AF-3226 project workshop from Kabul province Bothkhak district said: "Where we lived girls are not allowed to go to school because there are high levels of threats so at that time we could not convince our families that girls also have the right to education, this workshop helped us to make our males understand the importance of education for women and girls, we are happy most of the men in this workshop now agree with what we look forward to”.

- Masooda one of the direct female beneficiaries of AF3226 Project workshop from Parwan province said, “One of the friends of our office, who was an employee at the BBC site in Afghanistan, was sexually assaulted some male, in result of this training we understood that we must not be silent on such cases that takes place in our communities, now we with the cooperation of law enforcement agencies, will fight the case of the perpetrator of this case.”
- Susan Hamidi, one of direct beneficiaries of AF3226 Project workshop from Laghman province said, “My fiancé is a very bad guy he is trying to be a barrier to my education, but my family does not let me to be separated from him. I have a very difficult life, in the light of this training I now understand the ways how to get out of this challenge safely”.
- Ahmadullah khan one of direct beneficiaries of AF3226 Project workshop from Kabul province said, “My aunt's bride is an educated girl, but because of the traditions that a woman should not work outside, she cannot go out to work, and she is struggling with economic difficulties, now we get committed to work with our aunt to make her not to deprive the bride from her working right”.

When a man leader mindset is positively changes towards promotion of women's right he can influence many other male fellows as in this project Haji Zadrán Khan of 67 years old organized talks with more than 100 fellows and now they all work together for their children and children of their community to go to school and ensure their wives social participation

NECDO has given an award to Haji Zadrán Khan as messenger of Peace and kindness and an active advocate for women rights.

NECDO Peace Building Programs:

Celebrating Sisterhood for Peace in Afghanistan

During the past 40 years of conflict and war the social trust and social participation is badly impacted. The common people are divided in too much political, section, lingual, tribal, and religious groups. In the same way women are also divided in to many small groups. It's a huge challenge for movement and there is the need to bring more solidarity among women for a strong sisterhood, which paves the way for a meaningful and dignified peace for Afghanistan where women can play their important role. Therefore, NECDO in partnership with WILPF Afghanistan Section has initiated platform under the title of “Celebrating Sisterhood for Peace in Afghanistan” through this program we bring women, men, youths together to exchange and share their experiences for peace and so far 4 gathering was organized by participation of 100-350 women, youth, and men in Kabul going peace talks with the Taliban the conference concluded with the release of 7 points press statements in the presence of national and local media.

The conference started by Ms. Toorpekai Mohmand deputy president started the program & welcomed the participants. Then she provided a brief report on the WILPFs activities and achievements. Also she added that WILPF-Afghanistan section works for Afghanistan free of war and violence, where social justice and freedom for everyone is prevailed and women can play an active role for sustainable peace and development in the country. Our aim for creating such program is to remind the woman's role in peace building and their participation in peace process is crucial. Then Ms. Parina Jahid gave a complete WILPF activities report of two years through a power point presentation. After participation a panel discussing of four participants started the panel was led by Ms. Jamila Afghani president of WILPF Afghanistan section and the participants were Mr. Kakar NECDO Managing Director, Dir. Roheed, Ms. Spozhmi Wardak and Ms. Mushtari Danish the panel dissection topic was (How to ensure women participation in on-going peace talks). Ms. Wardak said that ("Peace is a source of comfort, freedom, Education, unity, rights, success and following the rights. All human beings need peace and without women is impossible because they can play a very important rule in peace"). Then Dr. Raheed talked ("about the important role of women in peace talks and he stated that women are the half of society"). Also Ms. Mushtari Danish talked ("about the problem which disable face in the society") after panel dissection the press statement of Women International League for Peace and Freedom Afghanistan Section was read by Ms. Jamila Safi board member of (WILPF) Afghanistan section and after one hour lunch break second part of conference start in this part all the participants divided in five groups and each group had a moderator and a reporter who collect the ideas of the participations and each group was working on a selected topic.

Women are half body of the nation and when they join hands for Peace no one can stop them from achieving the sustainable peace, in which all are included, and no one is left behind

Thus said, Afghan Women are moving forward!

Women's and Youth Empowerment for Sustainable Peace

The conference under the auspices of the National Conference on Women and Youth Empowerment in the Light of Peace and Sustainable Development of Afghanistan at the Palace of Marble in the Presidential Administration of the Media on May 12. The conference was start a series of recapitulations of the Word of Quran Majid by Mr. Azeemi and the National Anthem of Afghanistan, the honor of the leaders of young Afghans, university professors, students and other institutions and NGOs have been attending the Conference Ms. Jamila, Afghani, Spozemi Wardak, Ministry of Women's Affairs Advisor, Sayed Salah al-Din Shams director of UNU Afghanistan Ms. Masooda, Waisy supervisor had speech about the role of women in peace in Afghanistan.

Lesson learned: Afghan youth are very much concerned for peace process negotiation and the lack of youth in major decision making of the society. Gathering of the youth from all walks of life under a platform was a successful practice. During the conference there was group works among the participants where the virgin ideas came for youth engagement in the process. Therefore, NECDO is focusing on the mobilizing youth from the community to be actively engaged in social development of the country.

Peace and Reconciliation Project and Activities

Annual Conference 2018 Role of Ulama in Durable Peace, Development and Economy

Nuhazatulul Ulema of Afghanistan is an off spring of NECDO, which was the product of Imam Initiative Training. For the past seven consecutive years NUA is conducting their annual gathering where from 22 provinces the representatives are coming and sharing their knowledge and experience with each. Shogofa from Balkh province one of Women participants from Ulama said, “I am grateful and I thank the organizers of this conference from the bottom of my heart. As we all know in most the peace conferences and process women are not involved at all and I think having women participants in this conference was a great move. The conference was really effective and useful I learned a lot from it”.

All conflicting parties must listen to the Afghan people that “we are exhausted of war and we have paid enough price for the war our dear ones and our body parts and it is more then enough” stop war and the religious leaders must ensure their full participation in the peace process

NECDO Capacity Building Program

Training for the Awareness on Women's Rights in the Framework of Effective Laws of the Country and International Conventions

DANNAR was assigned NECDO to develop a training manual as well as provide 16 days of workshops for the staff of ministry of Haj from Kabul and provinces and to offer capacity building in the form of training modules for staff working with the mentioned Ministry. Furthermore, it aims to provide awareness regarding WOCs and its significance within the country. The project aim to achieve a more shared methodology and terminology in the field of working toward eliminating GBV in the Afghanistan using a peer to peer approach in the training methodology and to strengthen the capacity of Ministry's staff working with the victims of VAW Afghanistan. The project is based on experience from previse training sessions conducted over the last five years, as well as from in-depth talks between Danner, NECDO, Ministry of Haj and Religious Affairs and the staff at the Women Protection Centers in Kabul. NECDO was required to provide training for the Ministry of Haj and Religious Affairs staff The trainings have been focused on specific topics that had been given to NECDO based on need assessment as well as comments and feedback from Gender and plan and policy department of this Ministry. The Topics Addressed:

- GBV (History, Afghanistan perspective, kinds of GBV, challenges, solutions, etc.)
- Gender Discrimination
- Awareness GBV on WPCs
- Awareness Women's Rights
- Women's Rights in Islam
- Gender Polices (Ministry of Women Affair Polices, Administrative and civil form Service Reform policy
- Women's rights according to national and international laws

The lesson learned from this engagement was the followings:

- Most staffs are the ministry of Hajj are not aware of the laws, code of conduct and regulation which are for support of women's right in Afghanistan
- The ministry staff in Kabul need more trainings how to work on the conventions that Afghan government has ratified.
- Work with the key employees of MoRA from Kabul and provinces more effective, because hundreds of imams are working under their supervision and they address women and human right issue, peace and reconciliation.

NECDO Advocacy and Research Program

NECDO since establishment is working on engagement of men to promote and protect girls and women right in Afghanistan. During the year 2018 NECDO executive team and board of director decided to name a department under “Men Engage Program to protect and promote women’s right”. NECDO was actively part of many advocacy activities beside other sister NGOS such as AWN, ACCBAR, ACSF, UNMA, GBV cluster meetings and others. The main engagement NECDO focused was on peace process where in collaboration with WILPF Afghanistan section the following activities were under taken:

1- Research Report on Women Access to Financial Services in Kabul:

This research is undertaken to examine the travel patterns of women travelers in Kabul city, assessing their mobility issues, and challenges affecting their access to financial resources, information & other services. In addition, in this study key initiatives have been proposed to improve women mobility, their access to financial services. It also indicates types of capacity building programs needed for women to improve their income-earning options. The main purpose of this research study is to identify the major obstacles for the demand and supply of financial services & information that converge. Based on the findings of this research Afghan women lack the support of family and community to be allowed for their engagement in income generating activities, the main reason behind the lack of families and community support is the technical and social barriers such as:

- Harassment (Multiple kinds of sexual harassment on the public & work place, dialect, languages, & inappropriate behavior of drivers and conductors).
- Lack of transport facilities (late arrival of women employees to their work places by using public transport, over-crowded public transport, misbehavior of people, discrimination based on gender within transportation chains, shortage of space for women travelers using public transport, and expensive private transport fares).
- Lack of first-hand information to get access to the opportunities (high rate of illiteracy among women, lack of access to latest technologies, lack of social mobility and lack of information, gender based segregation within business chains).
- Gender based discrimination within the current financial institutions and government policies and laws.

The abovementioned challenges restrict women's full participation in the Afghan economy that include restrictions on their mobility and access to resources, markets, and venues for production, sales, and employment. The lack of support infrastructure such as viable business and social networks necessary to successfully conduct business and share the information, some challenges are common to both men and women, but have a greater impact on women. While access to finance is often an impediment for starting and growing a business, for example, Afghan women have less access to start-up capital and equity to start their businesses. As the findings of this study indicate that 82 % of the women are not able to pay for the transport services

The challenges that Afghan women face are considerable and require a strategic approach by government, donors and civil society actors. Women must be empowered at all levels of economic engagement and require the development of an enabling environment that promotes and ensures their success. The finding of this study indicates that skills for the marketplace range from basic literacy and numeracy to vocational, professional, office worker, services sector, ICT, and basic and advanced business skills are essential tools for women economic empowerment. The result of this study indicates that 20 % of the women are currently involved in tailoring field, the other 15 % of them are employed and interested in teaching field, 11% of the respondents are running different businesses such as perfume shops, automobile business and designing, 8% of the respondents are interested and engaged in handicraft activities. At the same time 7 % of the respondents are government employees, where as 6% of them are university students. In addition, 6% of the women are currently engaged in administrative field in banks and other private companies, 12 % of the respondents are not engaged in any business or income-generating activities. Thus, the above mention percentages shows that women economic contribution is low and capacity building initiatives will empower them to get access to financial resources

Women have limited access to information. They are confined to the home rely on male members of the household to relay information. Those who enjoy more mobility are often still limited in their information sources. Access to information can be improved by improving women's physical access to ICT (Information & Communication Technology) as well as by developing content that is responsive to women's needs. As women experience the benefits of improved access, they can increasingly use the Internet to find job and training opportunities, view images to generate new ideas for product design, communicate with mentors, develop market linkages, and conduct business communication. Based on the result of this study 70 % of the respondents do not know about financial institutions and their related services in Kabul city but are interested to know. But on the other hand 17 % of the respondents are aware of financial services. It shows a wide gap about the having information on financial services in the city.

The other major points this research indicates is overall, the lack of safe transport facilities for women and their products transfer. The general increase of insecurity has worsened safety conditions of the transportation inside and outside Kabul. Sexual harassment is one of the main reason that female cannot feel safe while using public transportation. Meanwhile the private transportation is very costly which have affected their access to financial institutions, information and getting of vocational trainings and skill for their engagement in the economic and development process.
